LITTLE MILITARY DRILL INVESTIGATION IS BEGUN

First Units on French Soil To Work
Behind Trenches But Their Presence
Is Expected to Impress On Intelligence
That U. S. Is Truly In the War.

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 8.—Arrangements were made today to recruit between 11,000 and 12,000 expert railway men for the new volunteer regiments of army engineers to be sent to France "at the earliest possible moment" to repair and build railroad lines needed urgently in the big push against the German lines.

They will be the first American "loop" units to serve on French soil although their work will be behind the trenches and they will be given only slight military drill. American officials are counting upon their impressing the French and British and even German soldiers with the fact that the United States is truly in the war.

LIBERTY LOAN SUBSCRIPTIONS SWAMP THE TREASURY

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Telegrams and letters containing estimates of subscriptions to the two billion dollar liberty loan for the Allies came to the treasury so fast today that even the augmented force of clerks could barely tabulate them. Many were from individuals, apparently in moderate circumstances, anxious to put their savings in the war cause. "File my application for a liberty loan," said a Mississippi farmer. "This and planting extra crops of corn is the only way I can help to win the fight."

SENATE RECEIVES THE BRITISH COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Foreign minister, Lieutenant General Sir George Balfour, arrived in the city today to receive the British commission. The commission was received today by the Senate with a demonstration which thrilled the enthusiasm and acclaim of their reception recently in the House. After the reception in the Senate floor, the party was entertained at luncheon by Vice President Marshall.

DISCUSSION OF ROOSEVELT DIVISION PLAN CONTINUES

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Another attempt by conference on the new army bill to reconcile differences between Senate and House failed today and the committee received until later with no prospect of agreement. The chief difficulty is over the amendment to permit sending Colonel Roosevelt's division to France.

STEEL MILL PRODUCTS FOR GOVERNMENT USE ONLY

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Congress will be asked to appropriate one billion dollars for the building of the great American merchant fleet to overcome the submarine menace. The program evolved by the shipping board contemplates the diversion to government use of the products of every steel mill in the country, cancellation of existing contracts between those mills and private consumers, and, where necessary, payment of damages by the government to the parties whose contracts are cancelled. Estimates of the shipping board are that from 5,000,000 to 6,000,000 tons of steel and wooden vessels will be built by the government in the next two years. The only manufacturers to be exempted from the program will be those needed otherwise for the national defense. Bills have been prepared and the administration hopes to get them under way promptly, so that the first of the ship building operations may be in motion in two weeks.

Submarines in Atlantic Said to Have Received Aid From American Ships.

INVESTIGATION IS BEGUN

State, War and Justice Departments All at Work Probing Activities of American Transatlantic Company; Crew of Mantowee Tells of Plot.

By Associated Press.
SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, May 8.—There are German submarines in the Atlantic and until very recently they have been supplied from the United States by ships flying the American flag, according to statements of members of the crew of the steamer Mantowee, which for several weeks was detained in the harbor at St. Thomas. Twenty-one of the crew are returning to the United States after difficulties with Captain H. Hogsted, master of the ship.

The Mantowee, Muskegon, and Allagash, all belonging to the same line, shortly before the Danish islands became the Virgin Islands, U. S. A., put into the harbor at St. Thomas, bound from Buenos Aires or New York, supposedly to "await orders." They were still waiting for orders when the islands were transferred to the United States. According to the manifest, all three ships carried coal and other fuel. Members of the crew of the Mantowee say all the vessels were loaded with contraband for German submarines.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The government is investigating activities of the steamer Mantowee and other vessels of the American Transatlantic company which are said to have carried supplies to German submarines in the Atlantic. This was disclosed at the Navy department, but no details of the steps taken were given out.

The American Transatlantic company has offices in New York and Boston and its ships fly the American flag. Officials here would not say what arrested their suspicions, but admitted the ships had been held for investigation at St. Thomas, Virgin Islands by order of the Navy department. Both the State and Justice department have been taking part in the investigation.

NEWS OF DEFEATS ON WESTERN FRONT KEPT FROM GERMANS

Great human snipers which General Haig has forged around the southern end of the Drocourt-Queant line are steadily closing and the rolling up of this important section of the German defenses appears to be a matter of a few days. The Drocourt-Queant line is the hastily improvised barrier thrown up by Field Marshal von Hindenburg to protect Cambrai and Douai after the more formal line, named in honor of himself, had been smashed by the British.

Historic School Soon to be Torn Down

The Fourth Ward school was built in 1869. Prior to that other school houses had graced the plot upon which it stands. In March 11, 1866, it was decided to issue bonds to cover the cost of a three story school house. On May 6, 1867, the plans were accepted. Worth Kilpatrick was the contractor, and J. T. McCormick supervised the erection. Work was not started until late in 1867 and the building was not completed until June 11, 1869. On June 14, the first session of school was held, with Samuel A. Esper as the first principal. Only the first and second stories were occupied at first, the third story being used as a public hall. The first class was graduated in May, 1882. It consisted of five young women and one youth.

The total strength of Company D was brought up to 120 last evening when 10 new names were added to the roster. The recruits enlisted include two from this city, three from Uniontown, one from Dunbar, and four from beyond Uniontown. Six of the men signed up last Thursday but were not given the medical examination until last evening, along with four new men. One man was rejected by examining officer, Major R. S. McKee, and one was turned down by Second Lieutenant Montgomery Dillworth, recruiting officer.

Those who passed all the tests were Augustus Wallace and Charles F. Graham, Connellsville; Joseph Rozay, Alfred R. Everett and Frank H. Coffman, Uniontown; William W. Hardy, Dunbar; Thomas W. McDowell, New Salem; W. T. Coughenour, Edinboro; William E. Morris, McClellandtown; William Bodnar, Mount Pleasant.

The new men were put through preliminary drills last evening by Lieutenant John Robinson, and others further advanced were drilled in the manual of arms.

300 PEOPLE STAND IN RAIN FOR FLAG RAISING

Notwithstanding the rainy weather, 300 people attended the flag raising ceremony at Layton on Saturday. "Old Glory" was unfurled at the top of a high staff, while the Layton band played "Rally Round the Flag." The Connellsville Italian band also played and the school children sang patriotic songs.

The services began at 8 o'clock and after the flag had been raised, the audience went to the Methodist Episcopal Church. A short address was made by Victor Francis of Layton, and he was followed by Hon. R. P. Hopwood and Judge J. Q. Van Swearingen, also of Uniontown. Both addresses were forceful, impressing on the audience their duty to the country, and loyalty to the Stars and Stripes. The

WEAR OLD GLORY ON ANKLET JAIL AWAITING YOU

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 8.—The wearing of the star spangled banner on the hosiery of a number of Washington women has aroused the indignation of the local chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution who have invoked the law to prevent the use of the American flag to adorn fair ankles. As a result of the protest lodged by the D. A. R. United States Attorney Lasker has ruled that both the seller and the wearer of hosiery bearing the national emblem have laid themselves open to arrest for violation of the anti-desecration law.

The law forbids any person "to manufacture, sell, expose for sale or to public view or use for any purpose, merchandise on which shall be printed, painted, attached or otherwise placed a representation of the flag."

United States Attorney Lasker says that under this statute a woman who wears flag-decorated hosiery makes herself liable to a fine not exceeding $100 or to imprisonment for not more than 30 days.

speaking was followed by more patriotic music. The committee in charge of the flag raising was Fred T. Edwards, chairman; Miss Mary Carson, Russell Miller, Tony Parona and Salvatore Leon.

Seeks Divorce.

UNIONTOWN, May 8.—Mrs. Gertrude E. Van Horn of Connellsville, represented by Attorney P. E. Younkman filed a suit for divorce against Leo R. Van Horn. They were married October 20, 1908, at New York city. Cruel and barbarous treatment and desertion on August 10, 1913, are alleged.

$250 IN LICENSES

Side Show and Booth Proprietors Pay For Week's Exhibition. Licenses from side shows and concessions of the Greaser Rutherford Shows, which exhibited on the West Side last week, amounted to $250. Eight shows were charged $10 each and the concessions $5. There were three other attractions, the whip, merry-go-round and ferris wheel, which were each charged $5.

City Clerk A. O. Bivler made the rounds of the carnival during the week and notified the proprietors of each show and stand to pay the license. Thirty-one concessions at $5 each amounted to $155 and the shows and other attractions brought the grand total to $250.

BIG DEMAND FOR SEED POTATOES

Committee's Idea in Ordering Carload Misunderstood by County Planters.

The finance committee of the Fayette county branch of the committee of public safety will meet Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Municipal building at Uniontown. All banks in the county will be asked to join in raising a fund to purchase seed potatoes for farmers unable to do much planting because of lack of funds. The intent of the committee was to "help the poor man," but there has been a general drive on the committee for potatoes.

Some wholesalers both here and in Uniontown will furnish the committee with seed potatoes at cost, and those who can afford to do so are asked to buy the potatoes, direct from the wholesalers, instead of expecting to "strike" the committee for them.

The idea of appointing a local committee to take care of subscriptions to a fund which is to be raised by the finance committee was dropped after sessions of the original safety committee members last night and this morning. At these meetings, it was decided that a better way to handle the matter would be to ask all the banks of the county to come in on the plan.

The activity of the committee will not stop with the encouragement of potato planting. Later efforts will be made to get larger yields of other crops.

Arrested After a Year.

WORKING ON NEW BLOCK SIGNALS

West Penn to Supply Power For System Between Here and Cumberland.

Preparations for the new electric automatic block signal system to be installed between here and Cumberland by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, have been begun. Linemen are now at work placing the poles for the high tension wires. It will be a long time, however, before the new signals are put into use.

At present an electric block system is used by the Baltimore & Ohio between here and Pittsburg. Installing the new system to Cumberland is a big job and will require much time but it will greatly increase the efficiency of the road. The hillside for about 20 feet along the tracks is being cleared off.

Instead of using batteries for the electric signals a contract will be made with the West Penn Power Company to supply current. It is for the wires to carry the high voltage lines that the poles are now being put in along the tracks.

The number of overhead signals to be placed has not been given out by the railroad but there will be many of them. It is more than 90 miles to Cumberland and the overhead signals will likely be placed about the same distance apart as the towers along the road are now.

FORM COURT OF HONOR

Five Men Named at Meeting of Scout Council Last Evening.

At a meeting of the Boy Scout council last evening, a court of honor, consisting of five men was appointed. The purpose of the court of honor is to test scouts on their ability to become first class scouts, and also to regulate the city organization.

The following men were appointed on the court: Rev. C. C. Buckner, E. C. Minor, Dr. H. C. Hoffman, J. C. Munson and E. C. Moore.

Since the local council was organized the appointment of a court of honor has been awaited in order that it might be possible to apply for a charter. The application will be filed with the national council this week. There are four troops of Boy Scouts in the city at present and all are filled up. Other boys have signed their willingness to join and it is possible that one more troop may be organized.

BOY INJURED

Stone Thrown by Comrade Cuts Gash in Joseph Creeden's Face.

Joseph Creeden, 12 years old, son of Mrs. Mary Creeden, and a pupil at the parochial school here, was slightly injured yesterday afternoon while playing ball near the school, when one of his comrades threw a stone which struck him in the face. The boy suffered a long gash in his face, which required five stitches to close, and was rendered unconscious. The occurrence is said to have been purely accidental. Reports are that the ball has gone over the hill into the "old quarry" and that young Creeden had climbed down after it, when another boy tossed down a stone which hit him.

OLD FOURTH WARD SCHOOL BUILDING SOON TO BE RAZED

School Board Will Open Bids for the Structure on Monday, May 21.

FOURTH ST. SCHOOL, TOO

Board Does Not Favor Selling Both Buildings at the Same Time But West Side Structure is to Go; Move to Collect Back Taxes.

The historic Fourth Ward school building, oldest but one in the city, is to be razed. Condemned as unsafe by state inspectors last year, it has been unoccupied for about a year. Last night school board decided to ask for bids for the structure to be opened Monday, May 21. Work on the raising of the structure will begin at the close of school, which will come on June 15. The man who does the job must agree to clear up the grounds after removing the building.

Several contractors some time ago expressed their willingness to bid on the structure when it was put up for sale, since it contains much valuable material. The Fourth street, West Side, property will also be offered for sale within a short time, it is likely, though the board did not favor selling both buildings at the same time.

In an attempt to collect on the tax duplicates of the last three years, school board decided to instruct H. C. Norton, collector for the 1914 duplicate, and E. R. Floto, collector for the 1915 and 1916 duplicates, to get after the $17,000 back school tax in every way possible. The board considers that $17,000 is a large amount to have outstanding just now.

The money is needed, since the general fund, as shown by the treasurer's report, has been overdrawn by $6,016.31. The financial committee was authorized last night to negotiate any loans necessary to meet the payroll and other current expenses. There was a balance of $1,609.56 in sinking fund No. 1, and $15,687.82 in sinking fund No. 2, on May 1, according to the treasurer's report.

Besides opening bids on the Fourth Ward school on the evening of May 21, the directors will let the contracts for stage scenery for the high school auditorium and for gymnasium apparatus. On Friday evening of this week, the board will meet for a short time to let the contract for hardware for the new Crawford school building. For each of these supplies only one bid was submitted.

Several changes were made in the construction of the new high school building. The board will spend an additional $250 to make the entire floor of the swimming pool room of tile instead of wood. The swimming pool design was submitted and approved. Marble partitions in the closets instead of wood will mean an expenditure of $2,000. "While we're putting the building up," W. W. Smith said, when Contractors Lawrence and Critchfield proposed these changes, "we might as well put it up right."

The smokestack on the building will be made lower than the architect specified. The plans call for a stack extending 32 feet above the roof, but with the approval of the heating contractors, will be cut to 16 feet. The money saved by the board on that item will be used for the erection of a steel derrick on the Fairview avenue and Prospect street corner of the building.

The proposed change of flooring in the Crawford school corridors from tile to mastic was not approved, since there was only a difference of $150 in the cost of the two materials.

The lighting contract for the West Side building was let to the Ince-Descent Supply company of Pittsburgh, for $797.50. This action was taken on recommendation of the three members of the board who opened the bids as a committee last Monday night.

Lloyd Shaw, representing Shaw & Barner, appeared before the board with an insurance proposition, saying that when the directors were ready to take out policies on the two new buildings he would like to share in the business.

Miss Catherine Smith was elected secretary of the board to succeed Miss Camilla Munk, who resigned recently. Miss Smith graduated from the Connellsville high school in 1910. She has been head bookkeeper for the Tri-State Telephone company.

All the directors were present at the meeting.

300 BUSHELS ORDERED

Many Applications for Seed Potatoes Distributed at Cost.

Applications were received at the office of the Fayette county farm bureau in Uniontown yesterday afternoon for more than 300 bushels of seed potatoes to be delivered from the car ordered through the Fayette County Public Safety committee. The car will contain about 900 bushels of the seed potatoes. Rural New Yorkers. The potatoes will be distributed to farmers throughout the county at actual cost, provided they are used for seed purposes. The distribution is being made through the farm bureau. Payments are to be cash when possible, or an applicant's promissory note, payable December 1, will be accepted by the executive committee.

12,000 RAILROAD MEN NEEDED FOR FRENCH SERVICE

French war mission to the United States arrived here early today and remained for several hours before resuming its return east.

The French commission arrived in Indianapolis at 12:15 this afternoon. A reception committee of state and city officials escorted the party along business streets which were lined with cheering throngs. The commission was here about an hour.

REPORTERS BORE MISS RUTH LAW

Girl Said to Be Aviator's Impatient at Attempts to Interview Her.

Reporters bother Miss Ruth Law, the aviator, to death. She says so herself. When a strange young woman came into town last night and, stopping at the Arlington Hotel, let it become known that she was Ruth Law, the news spread that the girl who made such a sensational airplane flight from Chicago to New York was here and there was some curiosity to see what she looked like. "An enterprising reporter thought it would be all right to interview an aviator," said she. "When I saw a reporter, I said, 'If she was fond of airplanes, I also was strong for F. X. Bushman, what size shoes she wears, and all that sort of thing. All enthusiastic, he presented himself at her hotel, totally unprepared for the series of shocks he received."

In the first place, Miss Law didn't come up to his idea of an aviator. She has a style all her own, as far as dress is concerned. She is small, rather chubby, dark complexioned. She wore a tiny hat perched upon the summit of a chubby face, a dark blue suit and low-heeled tennis shoes. Her walk is not what would be termed graceful, although grace doesn't count in operating an airplane.

Miss Law was talking to a Uniontown newspaperman over the telephone as the reporter of the flesh and blood appeal. He heard her make several unprintable answers and as she hung up the receiver she remarked to the clerk something about reporters being a nuisance—or words to the same effect.

"Well, here's another reporter," the Courier man remarked pleasantly, relying upon his winning smile to ingratiate himself into the aviator's favor. The smile failed woefully.

"I'm sorry but I'm not seeing any reporters just now," remarked Miss Law as she stood away.

The interview was over; that was certain. And Conneltsville was not to know if Miss Law liked sugar in her tea. Even the fact that she said she was sorry could not assuage the wounded feelings of the newspaperman. He consoled himself a little with the reflection that though Miss Law might be an aviator, she didn't look like one.

The girl spent the night in the city and the morning went to Uniontown in an automobile. She remarked to a man who stopped and began talking to her, that she didn't care for the trolley cars. He pointed to a machine standing along the curb and said, "Just sit in there until the driver comes out. He'll take you to Uniontown."

He did, too, the self-confessed aviator stating that she knew "Dutch" Thompson and wanted to see him.

What to Do for Itching Skins

There is usually immediate relief for skin itching, burning and disfigurement, eczema, ringworm, or similar tormenting skin trouble, in a warm bath with resalol soap and a simple application of resalol ointment.

The soothing, healing resalol medication stops itching at once, and soon clears away all traces of eruption, even in severe and stubborn cases, unless the trouble is due to some serious internal disorder.

You need never hesitate to use resalol. It is a doctor's prescription that has been used by other physicians for twenty years in the treatment of skin affections. ## ONLY POWERFUL MEDICINE WILL END RHEUMATISM

It matters not whether you have had agonizing pains from rheumatism for 20 years or distressing twinges for 20 weeks. Rheumatism is strong enough and mighty and powerful enough to drive rheumatic poisons from your body and abolish all injury or morbid back.

A. A. Clarke and all druggists sell Rheuma on a no-cure-no-pay basis for not more than 50 cents a bottle, and after you take a half teaspoonful once a day for two days you should know that at last you have obtained a remedy that will conquer the malism.

For over five years throughout America Rheuma has been prescribed by broad-minded physicians and his released thousands from agonies, pain and despair.—Adv.

THE FIRST PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES
owned and used The Encyclopaedia Britannica, 3rd Edition, in its original bulky, enveloped form, printed on old-fashioned THICK PAPER which necessitated a large, awkward book that had to be supported upon a table.

THE 28th PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES has the advantage of using The Encyclopaedia Britannica, 11th Edition, which contains 50% more reading matter, but is printed on thin INDIA PAPER and is so easy to hold and read as a magazine.

IN 1797 the stage coach traveling between Philadelphia and New York took two days to cover the ninety miles. In 1917 the Pennsylvania Railroad Express, over practically the same route, makes the run in two hours.

In 1797 it meant a four-hour drive by horse and carriage from Perth to the Golf Club at St. Andrew's. In 1917 you can easily motor over the same twenty-five miles under the hour.

In 1797 a sailing vessel often took three months to make the voyage from New York to Liverpool. In 1917 the Mauretania can make the same trip in just over five days.

There is just as much difference between The Encyclopaedia Britannica, printed on old-fashioned thick paper, and the new Britannica, "Handy Volume" Issue, printed on genuine India paper, as there is between the stage coach of 1797 and the Philadelphia Express of 1917; between the horse and carriage, traveling eight miles an hour, and the modern motor, traveling 50 miles an hour; between the sailing vessel and the ocean steamship.

If you want the old-fashioned stage coach-horse and carriage-sailing vessel kind of an Encyclopaedia Britannica you need not be in any hurry to buy now. You can get the heavy, bulky, luck paper Britannica at any time.

But if you want the modern "Handy Volume" Encyclopaedia Britannica, printed on genuine India paper, you must order at once.

The sets of the "Handy Volume" Britannica, printed on genuine India paper, now in stock are all that we can get. These are going at the rate of more than 2000 sets a week. The end of this sale is almost here. When the last set is sold no one will be able to buy the Britannica in this, its handiest form, at any price. No more can be printed.
We cannot get another set from the publishers, because they positively cannot get any more of the genuine India paper. No more India paper can be made because two necessary raw materials—flax from Belgium, Germany or Ireland and hemp from Russia—because of the war, are now absolutely unobtainable, and no more can be secured for many years.

Note:—This also means that no more of the Cambridge University issue of the Britannica and Century Dictionary can be had on genuine India paper.

We could probably sell many thousands more sets of the "Handy Volume" Issue of The Encyclopaedia Britannica if we could get them. As this sale nears the end we are receiving, daily, thousands of inquiries asking for information about the "Handy Volume" Britannica on this wonderful India paper.

When we announce the last day on which orders can possibly be filled we know that many orders will be sent in that we cannot supply sets for.

Sets can be seen and orders left at:

CHAPTER I.

Bank Cashier and Society Man.

It was ten minutes of eight when J. Montague Smith had driven his runabout to his garage and was hastening across to his suite of bachelor apartments in the Klondike terrace. There was reason for the haste. It was his regular evening for calling upon Miss Verda Richlander, and time pressed.

The provincial beauties had chosen a fit subject for their illustration to the young cashier of the Lawrenceville Bank and Trust. From his earliest recollections Montague Smith had lived the life of the well-to-do and the conventional. He had his place in the Lawrenceville social structure, and no other in the small-city business world, and he filled both to his own satisfaction and to the admiration of all and sundry. Ambitious, other than to take promotions in the bank as they came to him, and eventually to make money enough to satisfy the demands which Josiah Richlander might make upon a prospective son-in-law, had never troubled him. An extremely well-balanced young man his fellow townsmen called him, one of whom it might safely be predicted that he would go straightforwardly on his way to reputable middle life and old age; moderate in all things, impulsive in none.

Even in the affair with Miss Richlander sound common sense and sober second thought had been made to stand in the room of superlatives. Smith did not know what it was to be violently in love, though he was a charter member of the Lawrenceville Athletic club and took a certain pride in keeping himself physically fit and up to the mark. It was not his habit to be violent in anything. Lawrenceville expected its young men and young women to marry and "settle down," and J. Montague Smith, bearing in a modest way as a leader in the Lawrenceville young set, was far too conservative to break with the tradition, even if he had wished to. Miss Richlander was desirable in many respects. Her father's ample fortune had not come early enough or rapidly enough to spoil her. In moments when his feeling for her relieved its nearest approach to sentiment the conservative young man perceived what a gracefully fashionable figure she would make as the mistress of her own house and the hostess at her own table.

Smith began the switch of the electric and snapped to lay out his evening clothes, methodically but with a certain air of calm deliberation, inserting the buttons in the waistcoat, choosing the proper thickness, rummaging a virgin tin out of its box in the top dressing-drawer.

It was in the search for the tie that he turned up a mottled reminder of the nearest approach to any color of the real chain of sentiment, a small glove, somewhat soiled and worn, with a tiny rip in one of the fingers. It had been a full year since he had seen the glove or its owner, whom he had met only once, and that entirely by chance. The girl was a visitor from the West, the daughter of a ranchman, he had understood, and she had been staying with friends in a neighboring town. Smith had driven over one evening in his runabout to make a call upon the daughters of the house, and had found a lawn party in progress, with the western visitor as the guest of honor.

Acquaintances—such an acquaintance as can be achieved in a short social hour—had followed. At all points the bewitching young woman from the wilderness had proved to be a muckling little of the commonplace conventions, and had been moved to pity the same in the person of her momentary entertainer. Some of these his young person from the wide horizons had stirred in him were his only excuse for stealing her glove. There remained nothing of the evening's encounter at the lawn party save the soiled glove, a rather obscure and faded relic of the night, and attractive to be clung to by the word "pretty" these and a thing she had said at the moment of parting: "Yes! I am going back home very soon. I don't like your snug little West civilization, Mr. Smith—it smother me. I don't wonder that it breeds men who live and grow up and die without ever having a chance to find themselves."

Some day, perhaps, he would tell Verda Richlander of the shapely little Western beauty, Verda—and all sensible people would smile at the idea that he, John Montague Smith, was of those who had not "found" themselves, or that the finding-by which he had understood the Western young woman to mean something radical and upsetting—could in any way be forced upon a man enough to know his own lengths and breadths and depths.

He was stripping off his coat to dress when he saw two letters which had evidently been thrust under the door during his absence with Dehritt. One of the envelopes was plain, with his name scribbled on it in pencil. The other bore a typewritten address with the card of Westfall Foundries company in its upper left-hand corner. Smith opened Card Westfall's letter first and read it with a little twinge of shocked surprise, as one reads the story of a brave battle fought and lost.

"Dear Monty," it ran. "I have been trying to reach you by phone off and on ever since the adjournment of our stockholders' meeting at three o'clock P. M. of the little inside post, have got it where the chicken got the corn. Richlander had more prolixity up his sleeve than we thought he had, and he has put the steam roller over us to a finish. He was able to vote 65 per cent of the stock straight, and you know what that means: a consolidation with the Richlander foundry trust, and the hearse and white horses for yours truly and the minority stockholders. We're dead—dead and buried.

"Of course, I stand to lose everything, but that is not all of it. Ten hourly anxious for fear you'll be tangled up personally in some way in the matter of that last loan of $100,000 that I got from the Bank and Trust. You will remember you made the loan with Dunham was away, and I am certain you told me you had his consent to take my Foundries stock as collateral. That part of it is all right, but, as matters stand, the stock isn't worth the paper it is printed on, and—well, to tell the bald truth, I'm scared of Dunham. Bricker, the Chicago lawyer they have brought down here, tells me that your bank is behind the consolidation deal, and if that is so, there is going to be a bank loss to show up on my paper, and Dunham will carefully cover his tracks for the sake of the bank's standing.

"It is a hideous mess, and it has occurred to me that Dunham can put you in bad, if he wants to. When you made that $100,000 loan, you forgot—and I forgot for the moment—that you over the phurges of Westfall Foundries in your own name. If Dunham wants to stand from under, this might be used against you. You must get rid of this stock, Monty, and do it quick. Trans for the ten shares to me, taking the transfer back to Saturday. I still have the stock books in my hands, and I'll make the entry in the record and date it to fit. This may look a little crooked, on the surface, but it's your salvation, and we can't stop to split hairs when we're just been shot full of holes."

Smith folded the letter mechanically and thrust it into his pocket. Carter Westfall was his good friend, and the cashier had tried, unsuccessfully, to dissuade Westfall from agreeing to what he had admitted that he was going to use the money in an attempt to buy up the control of his own company's stock. Smith was thinking of the big bank loss and the hopeless ruin of Carter Westfall when he tore the seal and envelope across and took out the inclosed slip of scratch-paper. It was a note from the president and it was dated within the hour. Mr. Dunham was back in Lawrenceville earlier than expected, and the note had been written at the bank. It was a curt summons; the cashier was wanted, at once. At the moment, Smith did not connect the summons with the Westfall catastrophe, or with any other untoward thing. Mr. Watrous Dunham had a habit of dropping in and out unexpectedly. Also, he had the habit of sending for the cashier or any other member of the banking force at whatever hour the notion seized him. Smith went to the telephone and called up the Richlander house. The promptness with which the multimillionaire's daughter came to the phone was an intimation that his ring was not entirely unexpected.

"This is Montague," he said, when Miss Richlander's melodious "Miss four six eight—Mr. Richlander's residence" came over the wire. "What are you going to think of a man who calls you up merely to beg off?" he asked.

Miss Richlander's reply was merciful and he was permitted to go on and explain. "I'm awfully sorry, but it can't very well be helped, you know. Mr. Dunham has returned, and he wants me at the bank. I'll be up a little later on, if I can break away, and you'll let me come. . . . Thank you, ever so much. Goodbye."

"The Lawrenceville Bank and Trust, lately installed in its new marble-vanished quarters, was only four squares distant. As he was approaching the corner, Smith saw that there were only two lights in the bank, one in the vault and another in the railroad-off open space in front which held the president's desk and his own. Through the big plate-glass windows he could see Mr. Dunham. The president was apparently at work, his portly figure sitting the padded swing-chair. He had one elbow on the desk, and the fingers of the uplifted hand were thrust into his thick mop of hair.

Smith had his own keys and he let himself in quietly through the door on the side street. The night-watchman's chair stood in its accustomed place in the vault corridor, but it was empty. To a suspicious person the empty chair might have had its significance; but Montague Smith was not suspicious. The obvious conclusion was that Mr. Dunham had sent the watchman forth upon some errand; and the motive needed not to be tagged as ulterior.

Without meaning to be particularly odious, Smith—rubber heels on tiled floor, assisting—was unlatching the gate in the counter railing before his superior officer heard him and looked up. There was an irritable note in the president's greeting.

"Oh, it's you, at last, is it?" he rasped. "You have taken your own good time about coming. It's a half-hour and more since I sent that note to your room."

STOP!

Here's a Bargain Treat That Music Lovers Never Will Forget—Manufacturers Entire Stock

Of talking machines, that have, by their performances in the homes of the people, achieved a national reputation, will be disposed of at The Rapport-Featherman Company, by authority of the manufacturer, at less than actual cost.

Here's An Example

The De Luxe Model, pictured here, is sold everywhere at $125.00—the price established by the manufacturer—our reduced price is only $74.75 Which is more than $50 less than the regular advertised price.

The one condition that the manufacturer exacts is that we do not advertise the name.

Were we to do so we would sell everyone in a few hours, so well known is this machine, such a reputation has it achieved for its more perfect playing of any make of disc record. But, on the other hand, it would ruin the manufacturer, because it would destroy his established price, the price he must get regularly in order to pay the costs of manufacturing, costs of advertising, agency commissions, etc.

REMEMBER, EVERY MACHINE IN THIS SALE IS GUARANTEED AND WE'LL ARRANGE EASY TERMS OF PAYMENT WITH NO INTEREST CHARGES.

You will notice that this machine has piano style front, instead of the old, clumsy, awkward lid found on all other standard machines excepting those selling at more than double this price. This machine also has adjustable arm so that it will play sweeter and more perfectly than any other machine, any make of disc records, thus giving you your choice of the world's performers.

ish gray eyes were reflecting just a shade of the militant antagonism in Mr. Watrous Dunham's when he said: "I am delayed at the Country club with a friend, and I didn't go to my room until a few minutes ago."

"The president sat back in the big mahogany swing-chair. His face, with the cold, protrusive eyes, the heavy lips, and the deepening lower jaw, was the face of a man who shoots to kill.

"I suppose you've heard the news about Westfall?" Smith nodded.

"Then you also know that the bank stands to lose a cold hundred thousand on that loan you made him?" "The young man in the stenographer's chair knew very well why the night-watchman had been sent away. Smith saw the solid foundations of his small world—the only world he had ever known—crumbling to a threatened dissolution.

"You may remember that I advised against the making of that loan when Westfall first spoke of it," he said after he had mastered the premonitory chill of panic. "It was a bad risk—for him and for us."

"I suppose you won't deny that the loan was made while I was away in New York," was the challenging rejoinder.

"It was. But you gave your sanction before you went East."

"The president twisted his chair to face the objector and brought his palm down with a smack upon the desk slide.

"No!" he stormed. "What I told you to do was to look up his collateral and you took a snap judgment and let him have the money! Westfall is your friend, and you are a stockholder in his bankrupt company. You took a chance for your own hand and put the bank in the hole. Now I'd like to ask what you are going to do about it."

Smith looked up quickly. Somewhere inside of him the carefully erected walls of use and custom were tumbling.

"I may not prove quite the easy mark that your plan seems to predetermine, Mr. Dunham," he returned at length, trying to say it calmly. "Just what are you expecting me to do?"

"Now you are talking more like a grown man," was the president's crusty admonition. "You are in a pretty bad boat, Montague, and that is why I sent for you tonight."

"Well," said the younger man. "You can see how it will be. If I can say to the directors that you have already resigned—and if you are not where they can too easily lay hands on you—they may not care to push the charge against you. There is a train west at ten o'clock. If I were in your place, I should pack a couple of suitcases and take it. That is the only safe thing for you to do. If you used any ready money—"

It was at this point that J. Montague Smith rose up out of the stenographer's chair and buttoned his coat.
